ALL KINDS OF THINGS MAKE LIFE

How New York Exemplifies Variety Entering Into Modern Existence.

(Special Correspondence.)
New York, May 25.—The Adriatic, the latest of the huge new steamers, created more than the usual stir when she came up the river. Her huge proportions made her tower above all near by objects, causing intense surprise even among spectators who had seen all the other big vessels. When she unloaded, it seemed as though a small town had been dumped into West street, and it took a great while for the passengers to get lost in the crowd. She had on board 2,994 passengers, and such a number poured into the streets at once staggered people who reflected that they had been brought over by one vessel. As she lay for the week at her berth, she was visited by a great mass of people, who almost invariably spoke of her in comparison with the big skyscrapers. She is built for comfort, and rides the seas with ease and little motion. Her gait is not rapid, as she takes 7 days, 1 hour, and 15 minutes at an average speed of only 17.02 knots an hour. She got in the harbor all right, which is a comfort, as it was feared that the leviathan would experience difficulty in coming through the narrow and shallow channel.

J. W. Gates's Absence.
The absence of John W. Gates from Wall street, and the cessation of "Bet you a million," will tone down the street in a very marked degree. Gates is the most remarkable man who has come out of the West, and had Wall street by the throat many a time. There is a general feeling of relief that this element of uncertainty and organized sensationalism and cowboy methods has disappeared. The street breathes more easily, and expects less turbulence than of yore. Prosperity to his hunting say all as it will keep him out of the country for some time, but not alas forever.

A New Hercules.
There is a new Hercules in town, and he is performing a grand new Hercules stunt, that is really thrilling. Herr George Lett, 5 feet, 6 inches in height and weighing 135 pounds, is the new strong-armed artist, and his specialty is stopping automobiles with 25 horse-power turned on to run fifty miles an hour.

Herr Lett, who is a Bavarian, came to New York only last week ago, and gave the first public exhibition of his prowess. He is of slim physique, and not even the professional eye of Bernard McFadden would pick him out of a crowd as a professional strong man. But he made good. The exhibition took place at Broadway and Fifty-third street, and in the selection of that busy spot was demonstrated the little German's good judgment in his choosing of a press agent. However, with the scattering of a group of reporters and camera men, the patrolman on that beat saw for himself some extra work in keeping the crowd back, and threatened to pinch the strong man if the latter did not go elsewhere. Herr Lett looked frightened, and his hands shook so the test was adjourned to forty-third street, near Eighth avenue. A big red routing car was used. Herr Lett waited until the rear wheels reached him, and then, putting his right arm between two of the spokes, braced his feet against the asphalt pavement and pulled back, while the machine tried to go full speed ahead. The chauffeur put on all of the 35 horse-power, the wheels went around, but the body of the car remained stationary. After two such tests, Herr Lett amused himself by lifting the back part of the 2,000 pound machine clear off the ground.

Seaweed on Hats.
The latest development in woman's eccentricity in dress is a broad-brimmed hat trimmed with seaweed. Not real seaweed, of course, for that would have to be dried to be put on a hat and dried seaweed is the reverse of pretty. This decorative seaweed is artificial. The women in Paris who are adverse to using the plumage of birds on their bonnets and are tired of having their hats piled with flowers and feathery bows, have hit upon the product of Neptune's garden as a solution of the difficulty. When arranged skillfully in combination with artificial flowers, the weed produces a charming effect.

Harriman's Daughters.
Both of E. H. Harriman's daughters are enthusiastic whips, and they ways make a good showing in the coaching parade. The blonde, Miss Cornelia Harriman, is perhaps the better of the two when it comes to managing a four-in-hand, though the brunette, Miss Mary Harriman, is clever enough with the ribbons. But the blonde girl dresses the part more faithfully, and in fact, takes much more kindly to horse attire than does her sister. However, it must not be inferred there is anything mannish about the young woman. The conspicuous early sports is conventionally feminine, and has only that touch of severity which fashion demands. One of her newest photographs shows her in a low beaver of white silk, with a rigorously plain habit and a smooth

TWO CITIES—

AN ISLAND—

ANOTHER ISLAND—

Tokyo, Japan.

Dear Cousin Charley:
We have been enjoying every minute of our stay in Japan, as it is the most beautiful country we were ever in. Japan consists of several islands in the one group, and is about as large as California. Of course, the people are very crowded, as a great deal of Japan is mountainous, and they can't live on the mountains, so the cities are all very crowded and close together.

They are the most artistic people as a nation in the world, and their love for flowers is a national characteristic. They have many great artists and sculptors, and, of course, every one is familiar with the dishes and china that they make. Mama and Mrs. Dean spend most of their time rubbering around in the shops, buying embroideries and curios. What made a hit with us, tho, were the jirrikshas. They are the cutest little two-wheeled buggies you ever saw, and are pulled by Japanese men. They take the place of our horses and carriages to them, and say, it's great fun to ride in one of these rickshas, and the way those little fellows can run, when they want to; they don't think anything of a fifteen or twenty mile trip.

We went out to see the Emperor's palace and park the other day and it was certainly beautiful—the buildings were very fine, and the grounds and the flowers and funny trees were very interesting.

The Japs are great tea drinkers, and everywhere you see little tea gardens, where tea is served by little Japanese geisha girls in their pretty kimonos and embroidered slippers. They are very different from the Chinese in their desire to progress, and are, in fact, considered one of the world powers now. They are great admirers of the American people and most of their bright young men they send over to our country to study.

Yours HARRY.

ly rides in a costume suggestive more of the lawn than of the saddle, though of course it is a riding habit after all. And when she drives, Miss Mary Harriman is ready at any time to step off the box and go to afternoon tea. Miss Cornelia has really abundant hair done in a tight coil, the kind which a horsewoman alone can wear with comfort.

"Independent" Artists.

As a result of the attitude of the National Academy of Design towards art and artists, eight well-known painters have combined to hold annual exhibitions. The members of the combination are Arthur Davies, William Glackens, Robert Henri, Ernest Lawson, George Luks, Maurice Prendergast, Everett Shinn, and John Sloan. The new group, which has no name or formal organizations, will make its first appearance in public next February with an exhibition lasting two weeks. For this show the group has secured the Fifth avenue dealer. Each man will send five pictures, and there will be no jury.

Mayorality Recount Bill.

Friends of the bill providing for a recount of the votes cast at the mayorality election of the city say they have discovered what was the reason of the long delay in getting the bill out of committee. They say that in spite of the evident effort to make the bill a general one, in order to keep it out of Mayor McClellan's hands, it will have to go to him nevertheless. If this is true, it is evident that passing the bill before adjournment a veto by the mayor will kill the bill, as there would be no legislature to repass it over his veto. As it will not be reported until the last of the week, that would mean the 30th before it would be ready for passage over the mayor's veto, and the legislature is expected to adjourn before that time. The only hope the bill would have under the circumstances, would be for the governor to recall the legislature to pass it over the mayor's veto, but it is not thought that this step would be taken upon a measure of purely a local importance. Should the delay of the friends of the bill correct the measure would seem to be in a fair way to be killed by the man most interested in preventing its passage—Mayor McClellan himself.

Mrs. Makay's Open Air.

Although it would be a severe tax on the imagination to picture Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish or any other New York social leader entertaining a party of friends in Central Park, or any of the city's breathing places where the lungs of the mere populace expand, a foreign paper says that on every Sunday Mrs. Makay receives her friends in a secluded corner of the Latin Quarter's most famous park in Paris. The refreshments at these entertainments are supplied by passageway vendors, such as old women who sell tempting raisin cake and other like delicacies. The paper adds to this account, which whether or not authentic, is pleasant to believe, that these novel little affairs have been most successful and are a great relief after more formal fashionable entertainments. The public take these park receptions as a matter of course in Paris, it appears, and there is no gaping throng or camera bend to mar them.

THE PUZZLE DOLLAR GOES TO MILTON

But Box of Candy Stays in Pensacola This Week.

That big shiny puzzle dollar takes a trip out of town this week, and goes to Miss Mattie McDaniel, at Milton. The box of Huyler's delicious candy is for a little girl in Pensacola, Miss Eva Dora Hallmark, 130 East Government street. The dollar will be sent to the lucky little puzzler at Milton, and the box of candy may be had by calling at the D'Alemberte's pharmacy.

Few Incorrect Answers.

The puzzle army did remarkably well this week. There were very few incorrect answers sent in. "Harry Harry" is having a great time in China, but his trip around the world will soon be at an end. Wonder what he is then going to give the puzzle army to work upon, and puzzle their brains over?

Only Coupon Answers.

A number of the puzzle army, who surely should know better by this time, sent in their answers to the puzzles of May 19, written upon writing paper, and not upon The Journal's puzzle coupons, which appear in every Sunday's issue with the puzzles. The answers in every instance were correct, and neatly written, but could not be considered as a strict rule of the puzzle department is that all answers to the puzzles must be on the puzzle coupon, bearing the correct date.

The correct answers to the puzzles of the nineteenth of May are as follows:

Correct Answers.

- 1.—Peking.
- 2.—Canton.
- 3.—Opium.
- 4.—Hoang.
- 5.—Khanga.
- 6.—Tonkin.
- 7.—Manchuria.
- 8.—Siki.

In Pensacola.

Correct answers were received from members of the puzzle army who reside in the city, as follows:

Eva Dora Hallmark, Louise Gabel, Rebekah Grosskopf, Leona Blumer, Willie Johnson, Arthur Johnson, Mayel Johnson, Clarence Martin, Francis Martin, Althea Blumer, Hilda Rawls, Mabel Hockett, Minnie Barbour, Amelia E. Brown, Ruby Wilkinson, Laura England, Pearl Whitwell, Ethel Wilkerson, The Hernandez, Roy Courtney, Alta Lowry, Wilma E. Dailey, Ford Wilkinson, Moreno Coe, Willie Merritt, Nellie Merritt, Bonifay Merritt, Laura Merritt, Elizabeth Watson, Hilda L. Harris, Katie M. Hartman, Emma L. Hartman, Ella B. Roch, Marion Watson, Bernice Fairburn, Ethel Evers, Clara Thompson, Enla May Stuckey, Harry Sharp, Chris. A. Johnson, John Olsen, Freddie Tiedemann, May Gagnet, Tony S. Johnson, Ed Swaine, Lucy Swaine, Willard Butler.

One correct answer came from 16 W. Romana street, but the sender's name was not given.

From Out of Town.

Cora Killebrew, Vernon, Polly S. Spears, Milton; Willie C. Chaffin, Marianna; Patsy Killebrew, Vernon; Evelyn Phillips, Little Bayou; Francis Peake, Bayou Chico; Jasper Yond, Charlie Muller, Warrington; Clem McArthur, Chumuckla; Milton Wood, Lappington, Mobile; Hattie Lu Tram, Muscogee; Sammie Stewart, Milton; Clifford Ward, Fisherville; Fred B. One correct coupon received bore no name, but merely the street and number, 16 West Romana street, city.

Not All Correct.

Celia Rand, number 16 West Romana street, number 2 and 6 wrong; Everitt Rice number 8 wrong.

No Letter Received.

For the first time in many weeks, no letters were received from members of the puzzle army, no doubt every one of whom are busy preparing for the closing examinations and commencement exercises of the various schools that they attend.

Many of the little puzzle people go to various summer resorts with their parents, after the closing of school. The Journal always follows, and the puzzle editor hears from them every week, as not one of the puzzle army was too busy last summer to send in his or her answer to the Sunday puzzles.
